

MONSTERS

	THE MONSTER OF VICTOR FRANKENSTEIN	QUASIMODO	THE ELEPHANT MAN
REAL PERSON OR CHARACTER?	He is a fictional and literary character	He is a fictional and literary character	John Merrick was an English man known for having severe deformities
WHO CREATED HIM?	Mary Shelley created this character for her novel	Victor Hugo created this character for his novel	He was a real man so he was not created, but he was nicknamed as the elephant man.
WHEN?	He was created in 1818	He was created in 1831	He was born the 5 August of 1862
BOOK HE BELONGS TO	He appeared in the novel Frankenstein; or, The Modern Prometheus	He is the main protagonist of the novel The Hunchback of Notre-Dame.	He doesn't belong to any book, he appeared in the film the elephant man as the main protagonist.
HIS PROBLEM	He didn't have a problem. He has created with parts of other bodies with method consisting of chemistry and alchemy.	Quasimodo was born with a hunchback and feared by the townspeople.	He had severe deformities because of disease like the Proteu syndrome and neurofibromatosis.

COULD HE BE HAPPY?

He had a grief life with rejections, so I think he didn't have a happy life.

He had a sad life, until he meet Esmeralda, so I think in that time he was very happy, until the day she died.

He had a difficult life, and he was always in the hospital and exhibitions, he only found peace in his last years of life. But we can't know if he was happy.

HOW DID HIS LIFE END?

Frankenstein made him mentally and emotionally human, but physically hideous. So, the creature wanted to get revenge. It was only when he saw Frankenstein dead that he really regretted what he'd done. That's why he kills himself when he does.

When Quasimodo sees Frollo smiling cruelly at Esmeralda's execution, he turns on his master and throws him to his death from the balcony in rage.

Merrick's death was ruled accidental and the certified cause of death was asphyxia, caused by the weight of his head as he lay down.